TeamViewer a good software to connect and share a graphical environment on Windows and Linux

Author : admin

I've just been introduced to Teamviewer

Teamviewer allows multiple people to login to the same PC / workstation and share the screen.

This is quite handy especially if you're a couple of people and you want to have a common lesson or share some screen to watch and comment on something.

I've tried teamviewer and shared a Windows desktop with my good friend Dave and we talked simultaneously over skype and it was quite cool I should say! :)

TeamViewer actually does for GUI users the same as the gnu screen does for us the IT geeks. Take some time and checkitout with a friend and I'm quite sure you will have some fun :)
TeamViewer is available for download via teamviewer's website

However teamviewer has a bad side as well, it's not GLDed Free Software.
Anyways for personal use it's a fine piece of soft :)
