

Wine in The Central Park

Author : admin

I and Alex Drunk Asenovgrad's Mavrut in the central park it was very cold, but at least an experience. Right now I'm a little hot (cause of the wine). I'm urinating too often recently and it drives me mad. Also I'm a kind of lost I told Sasho about Torsion fields and stuff but he make a fun of that no matter I think that's a serious matter here is an interview with Nikolay Palushev that may be of an interest to the reader <http://www.spiralata.net/kratko/articles.php?lng=bg&pg=128> .

Today I had English in the college pretty boring haven't had a lot of work I had to fix few binary permissions part of a postfix also delete some old backups and create a new samba share some mail server problems for few minutes I think that's all ... I hate this world so much everything is so useless and awful. I hope to meet God soon ...